Great Increase of Yellow Fever Cases in Brownsville.

RAILROAD RATES TO BE AT ONCE CUT LARGELY.

Clearing House Statistics—Officers Elected by the Forestry Congress—The President Tendered a Reception at Newport.

SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.

Clearing House Reports.

NEW YORK, Aug. 23.—Clearing house exchanges for the week as compared with the corresponding week last year show the following gains and losses in business transactions:

GAINS.

	2.6	Hartford	35.2
New York	7.4	New Haven	2.5
Cincinnati	1.1	Lowell	98.8
St. Louis	6.3	Springfield	19.3
Pittsburg	12.6	Worcester	5.7
Providence	27.0	Syracuse	30.4
Kansas City

LOSSES.

	17.0	Milwaukee	17.3
Boston	.4	New Orleans	25.4
Philadelphia	16.2	Cleveland	3.3
Chicago	7.4	Indianapolis	10.5
Baltimore	13.5	Peoria	12.8
San Francisco	11.7	Memphis	13.3
Louisville

The Public, commenting on this exhibit, says: The exchanges for the third week in August were a little larger than for the second week, and this is contrary to the usual course of events, and therefore a favorable indication. The aggregate outside of New York for the third week in the dullest month of midsummer is the largest ever known except last August when unnatural [illegible] speculation in grain, cotton and provisions [illegible] swelling exchanges. The magnitude of speculative dealings last year renders the comparison less [illegible] than usual. During the whole period while the president lay in peril and the land was daily [illegible] up with drought, the exchanges reflected [illegible] the actual condition of business; but it [illegible] only this be said that comparatively the de[illegible] as many as twelve cities, including nearly all the chief points of distribution, is a decidedly [illegible] symptom. Speculation in products [illegible] for the difference at Chicago and [illegible] at New Orleans and Memphis, but it [illegible] the fact that there is no substantial [illegible] in the volume of transactions at a [illegible] of the twelve cities of commerce except [illegible] prices are higher than they were in [illegible] and a corresponding increase in the [illegible] through the banks would appear if [illegible] actual decrease in the qualities of [illegible]. Kansas City, a point of distribution [illegible] of manufacturing, has been growing [illegible] and absorbing trade formerly done [illegible] the movement at all; other trading [illegible] and we suspect that it may [illegible] considerable disappointment later in the [illegible].

Chicago Notes.

[illegible] Aug. 23.—The national prohibition convention [illegible] here to-morrow. A considerable [illegible] of delegates are already here.

[illegible] of Hugh Mahr, assessor of the town [illegible] that a prominent man offered to bribe [illegible] to lower the assessment of property [illegible] appear, about to go by default. Mahr [illegible] attorneys of the company would [illegible] to him to give the name of the man [illegible] the bribe, he would do so. The attor[illegible] to reject the name, and Mahr declines [illegible].

[illegible] is made here that trouble was [illegible] Chicago and Omaha roads as a re[illegible] of the Council Bluffs line of the [illegible] the other four lines between Chi[illegible] pool their traffic. It was ex[illegible] would ask to come in, but it has [illegible]. Meantime it is running daily [illegible] stock trains eastward. It is said the [illegible] this line is getting the [illegible] schedules, it is believed, from live [illegible] the Union Pacific road. It is now [illegible] the statement about the time of [illegible] new line that the Union Pacific [illegible] deliver all its live stock traffic to [illegible] it is said the poolers have reason [illegible] contract for this traffic for the entire [illegible] between the two companies. [illegible] it is stated that concentration of [illegible] line is a protest from shippers [illegible] pooling arrangements. If this [illegible], a break in rates is consid[illegible], and with a break in live stock, [illegible] follow and a war be the result. [illegible] the point of trouble to ex[illegible]. It is believed the present state [illegible] maintained many days.

Railroad Changes.

[illegible]—There has been considerable [illegible] the resignation of J. T. Clark as [illegible] of the Union Pacific as to [illegible] him. To-day a change of system [illegible] which abolishes the office of [illegible]. The new arrangement will [illegible] September 1st and is as follows: The [illegible] of company have been grouped in new [illegible] the superintendent of each will be [illegible] superintendent of that division. Under [illegible] Smith, with headquarters at [illegible] will be the general superintendent of [illegible] division and branches, including the [illegible] A. A. Ebert, at Denver, will be the [illegible] superintendent of the Colorado Central, [illegible] & Pacific, Georgetown, Breckenridge, Denver & Western Pacific, Denver [illegible] and all branches; P. J. Nichols, at [illegible] the Nebraska division, includ[illegible] in the Union division between [illegible] Cheyenne; Robert Law, at Cheyenne, [illegible] the Wyoming division being west of [illegible] J. F. Congdon will have charge of the [illegible] car department, E. Lane of the [illegible] department...

Texas Special News.

[illegible] Aug. 23.—Texas special: Near Kauff[illegible] convicts working with a gang [illegible] Central railroad, seized the Winchesters [illegible] and escaped into a thicket. WASHINGTON CITY.

Colonel Taylor's Case.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23.—[illegible] excited over the court martial of Col. Taylor, [illegible] tried in Cincinnati for trying to get his [illegible] revoked through congressional influence. This is connected with one of the greatest scandals at present in both army and navy, namely, the use of political influence in determining the duty of military officers. Although army officers here [illegible] of documents are reasonably above the ordinary influence which politicians know very well how to exert over one another, yet it is desirable that the departments should be on good terms with congress in order that they may be treated with consideration in appropriation bills and for other reasons; therefore when a congressman presents a case to a detailed officer, he is not apt to give an attentive ear to the argument. In the present case Col. Taylor, who has a very pleasant place in the barracks at Newport, has been ordered to Omaha. He has just moved his family to Newport, and this change caused him some inconvenience and expense. It was made, however, to give Col. Corbin a pleasant assignment. Col. Corbin, whose fidelity to Garfield in his late illness endeared him to the nation, was removed in the ordinary vicissitudes of military duty from his position at Washington, and he desired the above agreeable duty, causing the department to assign him to Newport barracks. This made all the trouble and perhaps in an ordinary case the department would have winked at the interference of congressmen to keep Col. Taylor in his place, but Corbin's case made the affair peculiar and the department resented congressional interference on Taylor's behalf. Army officers think, however, that the court martial will not condemn Taylor, while the fact of one having been ordered to try this class of offences will have the effect of making officers more cautious in securing congressional help to assist them in making a fight against the war department in assignment of duty.

The court martial at Newport barracks for trial of Col. Joseph Taylor, closed this forenoon. The proceedings of the trial were signed to-day and forwarded to Washington.

Secretary Lincoln in Hot Water.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23.—Secretary Lincoln seems to be peculiarly unfortunate in his relations with the officers in control of the department. His relations with General Sherman never have been of the most cordial character, as the latter thought it to be the desire of the secretary to encroach upon his domain, and his repeated revisals overruling Judge-Advocate-General Swaim has caused a serious rupture between himself and Swaim that has not as yet been healed. To-day there is a report of a disagreement between Quartermaster-General Ingalls and the secretary regarding certain appointments in the office of the former. It has been the habit of the quartermaster-general, as well as other heads of bureaus, to appoint clerks and other employes under his control, and when the new quartermaster-general took his office upon retirement of his predecessor, General Rucker, he attempted to exercise his power, which he supposed vested in himself, when Lincoln took the entire matter out of his hands. General Ingalls was forced to submit, but that he is doing this with very bad grace is evident from the fact of his complaints among army officers against the secretary.

Washington Notes.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23.—McSweeney resumed argument for defense in star route trials to-day.

Reports have been received at the treasury department of startling irregularities in the accounts of James Crawford, superintendent of the United States mint at Carson City, Nevada, and an investigation will be made.

The navy department has advices from Lieutenant Harbor, of the United States navy, from Virla, Siberia, June 11th, but nothing new.

Collecting Assessments.

The Star says collectors of the republican congressional committee are working the army and navy departments to-day. They had all who had not responded to the request for voluntary contributions down on the books as delinquent. Nowhere is less than two per cent. of the salary received.

CRIMINAL NOTES.

Brutal Outrage.

HANNIBAL, Mo., Aug. 23.—Two negroes, Liberty Kennedy and Edward Murphy, brutally assaulted a white girl, six years old, named Dora Kimball, in the suburbs of the city, and were caught in the act by D. H. Courtney. Murphy was captured by Courtney and a great crowd of excited citizens turned out to hunt Kennedy. After a long chase he was captured and lodged in jail. Relatives of the outraged girl made ineffectual attempts to kill him. Both prisoners will have an examination to-morrow, when it is thought they will be lynched.

Arrested on Suspicion.

MT. PULASKI, Ills., Aug. 23.—John Rush, a laborer recently discharged by McMahon, has been arrested and lodged in jail on suspicion of being concerned in the triple murder near here.

The McMahon Tragedy.

MT PULASKI (Ills.), Aug. 23.—Evidences multiply that accomplished murderers perpetrated the triple tragedy at McMahon's farm. Farmers have a well organized search in progress and will ransack the country. The arrest of Rush last night was more of a precaution than anything else. Suspicion is directed against M. L. Hall, a desperado resident, who has been much reduced and been working out lately. He knew McMahon well, being distantly related. His actions and record are suspicious. John A. Pletz and Oliver Hall, his brother, are also suspected. None of them have been arrested, but all are shadowed.

Coroner's Inquest in Session.

MT. PULASKI, Ill., Aug. 23.—The coroner's inquest on the triple murder case met to-day with closed doors, and will continue the session to-morrow. It has not been learned that anything of importance has developed. The young man Rush taken in custody yesterday was released to-day. Logan county has offered $3,000 reward for the apprehension and conviction of the murderers. This added to the reward offered by the governor and several private rewards foots up $6130. A mystery is surrounding the murder.

Chicago Criminal Record.

CHICAGO, Aug. 23.—During the year ending in July, 1804 cases have been disposed of in the criminal court and only 165 go over. Convictions have been more numerous than ever before.

Murderer Arrested.

ELRODS STATION, Pa., Aug. 23.—James Conaray was arrested here to-day charged with the murder of Pete McCann at Jobville, N. Y., in 1880.

Suicides by Wholesale.

DENVER, Col., Aug. 23.—Within three weeks past there have been 18 attempts at suicide here. Five people succeeded in shuffling off in that period.

LONDON, Aug. 23.—Ebaro handicap stakes, at York, were won by Victor Emanuel, Ballot, 2d; Ishmael, 3d.

The President at Newport.

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 23.—President Arthur, accompanied by Secretary Frelinghuysen, Attorney General Brewster, Gen. Hancock, Mrs. Frelinghuysen and Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Jewell, arrived on the steamer Eolus last night. The president was met at the wharf by ex-Gov. Morgan of New York, whose guest he will be during his visit. There were no formalities, the president simply dining with Gov. Morgan and his family. He will visit Fort Adams, attend Governor Morgan's reception, and formally receive the governor and state officials and mayor and city officials.

An Elaborate Reception.

NEWPORT, Aug. 23.—Ex-Gov. Morgan's reception to President Arthur this afternoon was an elaborate affair. Over 500 people were present, including the Spanish, Austrian, Turkish and Swedish ministers; Mayor Franklin and members of the Newport council, Gov. Littlefield, Lieut.-Gov. Fay, U. S. Senators Aldrich and Anthony of Rhode Island, ex-Mayor Prince, Col. W. E. Price, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Prince, Prof. and Mrs. Wolcott Gibbs, Prof. Agassiz and son, and Mrs. M. E. Whittier of Boston; Mrs. John Jacob Astor, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Astor, Augustus Schell, John Jay, Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Jewell, Judge Blatchford, Judge Haymer, and Mr and Mrs. W. H. Vanderbilt, all of New York; all officers from Fort Adams station training ship, and from U. S. steamers Despatch and Tallapoosa, Cabinet Ministers Chandler, Frelinghuysen and Brewster, Mr. Phillips, the president's secretary, Gens. Hancock, Howe, Fry, Schofield, and Commodores Baldwin and Worden. The reception lasted from 4 to 7. The band from Fort Adams furnished the music. This evening the president remained at Morgan's and will to-morrow visit the torpedo station, and dine with Cornelius Vanderbilt in the evening.

FIRES.

At Bethalto, Illinois.

BETHALTO, Aug. 23.—A flouring mill and elevator were burned to-day. Loss, $150,000; insurance, $102,000.

POLITICAL.

The Political Trouble with Cornell.

NEW YORK, Aug. 23.—[illegible] Cornell's stock [illegible] papers [illegible] to exaggerate for [illegible] Cornell was [illegible] of the A. D. T. [illegible] position [illegible] holding of stock [illegible]. It was not alone, having associated with those such men as Gould, Sage, Sidney Dillon, Garrison and others, who [illegible] control the stock market and can influence stocks either way they desire. These men were to become responsible for the stock and share the profits of such sales as Cornell might make, he having control of the affair. It had become necessary to make a sale of A. D. T. stock, as a new company was being organized and the stock of the old was likely to decline in price; in consequence, then, the how to get rid of the old stock at a fair profit was the question. Governor Cornell organized a "blind pool," it is stated, and capitalists who, of course, were promised to aid the scheme because of their appreciation of the fact they were likely to reap a rich harvest of profits as well as would Cornell, came to the front handsomely. The par value of the stock was then $25. It was quoted at $1.50. The price at once went up to $35, and was marked by the pool at that point. This gave it the value per share of $82, as stock is quoted on 'Change on a basis of $100 par. When it got into the vicinity of $79 the governor is said to have unloaded and put out a large lot of shorts. Then the new company came up, and A. D. T. dropped to $50, and has since gone much lower. How much the governor cleared by his short sales at $79 is not known, but his being evidently a government manager it is to be presumed he cleared a handsome return. One trouble apparently with the associates of Gov. Cornell in the "blind pool" is that they did not receive the share of profits in the operation that they believe belongs to them. But this is not the primary cause for the statement relative to Cornell and his course towards the elevated railroad tax bills, as well as his course in the blind pool. The chief reason is a desire that is felt to kill off the governor in his attempt to secure a renomination. The men to do this are Jay Gould and Roscoe Conkling; Gould because Cornell's refusal to lessen his tax took so much money out of his pocket, and Conkling because he has a score to settle with Cornell for the latter's course in the senatorial contest of a year ago. These two men then are placing themselves in front as virtual directors of the republicans of New York state. Gould also sees ahead and no doubt desires to have his potency felt in the choice of a new railroad commission which the next governor will name. These considerations have much to do with his present course. It is more than likely, however, that rural voters who do not like to be cheated with their eyes wide open will take some special pains to elect delegates to the county conventions who fairly represent the sentiment of their district. So far the endeavor to injure Cornell's chances have not gone, it is safe to say, beyond newspaper agitation.

National Prohibition Convention.

CHICAGO, Aug. 23.—The National Prohibition Convention met in Farwell Hall this morning at 10 o'clock. Some 300 delegates were present. Some states were represented very largely and some of the more distant ones not at all.

Gideon Stewart, of Ohio, chairman of the national prohibition reform executive committee, called the convention to order, and, in a brief speech, said in many localities and states prohibitionists have burned their bridges behind them by cutting loose from other parties which had strayed north and south against each other. The prohibitionists wanted a party of honesty, of honor, and they wanted the burial of these crime-stained and blood-stained parties.

Rev. John Russell, of Michigan, was elected temporary chairman. He also spoke favoring a grand national prohibition party.

Phebe Cozzens, of St. Louis, and Mary B. Willard were elected secretaries.

Mr. Young, of Iowa, representing one of three Iowa delegations, asked if delegates not committed to a third party movement, though in full sympathy with prohibition, were to be excluded. Their delegates wanted to know before submitting their credentials. If barred out, they would go to work on their own earnest lines.

The chair said those would be barred out who had not abandoned affiliation with the democratic, republican, greenback or any other party that had not declared in favor of legal prohibition of the liquor traffic.

A committee on credentials was then named.

Mrs. J. A. Brown and Rev. Arthur Edwards delivered addresses of welcome, and J. H. Finch, of Nebraska, responded. Recess till 2 P. M.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

Convention reassembled at 2 P. M., and the committee on permanent organization not being ready, addresses were made on the condition of the prohibition cause in various states.

Among the speakers were Miss Frances E. Willard of Illinois, Mrs. Wood of Iowa, Dr. C. Heirs of Kentucky, D. Southerly of Minnesota, Mr. Plumb of Missouri, Miss Phoebe Cozzins, of Missouri, George Bain of Kentucky, and Mrs. Ellen Foster of Iowa. The latter said Iowa would truly and rigidly enforce prohibition, and Dakota would be a prohibition state as soon as admitted to the union.

The committee on credentials here reported the number of all delegations present, making 341 members of the convention, but only allowing as many votes to be cast on important questions as each state has congressional districts.

A committee on resolutions was appointed with J. Tanner chairman.

There was considerable animated discussion over the proposition to add Miss Willard to the list of the committee on resolutions. She was finally added, but all other women excluded.

Prof. Schmidt, of Lake Forest, made a ringing speech, logically arguing that German citizens needed only proper organization to bring them into the ranks of the prohibition party. He said: I believe in five years all Germans in the northwest will favor a prohibitory amendment to the constitution.

The committee on permanent organization here made a report, which was adopted. It constituted the following officers: President, D. J. Kanause; first vice president, James Roberts, and one vice president from each state; secretaries, Mary Lathrop and Mary A. Woodbridge; secretaries at large, F. E. Willard, Gideon Stewart and Geo. W. Bain; recording secretary, W. H. H. Bartram.

President D. Kanause made a ringing speech, and referred to his German parentage and education, and his conversion to prohibition.

After transacting some routine business, the convention adjourned till 9 A. M. to-morrow.

Congressional Nominations.

CELINA, Ohio, Aug. 23.—Republicans of the fourth district nominated Judge J. S. Conkling for congress yesterday.

HILLSBOROUGH, Ohio, Aug. 23.—Prohibitionists of the twelfth district nominated Daniel Hill for congress yesterday.

NEW LEXINGTON, Ohio, Aug. 23.—Republicans of the thirteenth district nominated R. C. Dunkle for congress yesterday.

NASHVILLE, Aug. 23.—Andrew J. Caldwell was nominated for congress in the sixth district by democrats yesterday.

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., Aug. 23.—Republicans in this district nominated Capt. J. H. Thomas for congress yesterday. The resolutions deem it the duty of the next legislature to submit a prohibition amendment to the people.

WINAMUCK, Ind., Aug. 23.—A special states: Senator Wood was nominated for congress to-day by democrats of the tenth district.

CINCINNATI, Aug. 23.—Democrats of the fifteenth Ohio district nominated Gen. A. J. Warner, at Marietta, for congress by acclamation.

SPRINGFIELD, Ohio, Aug. 23.—Democrats of the eighth district have nominated Gen. J. H. Young for congress.

FREMONT, Ohio, Aug. 23.—Republicans of the tenth district have nominated Hon. Charles A. King for congress.

LEMARS, Ia., Aug. 23.—Democrats of the 11th district have nominated John P. Allison for congress.

DES MOINES, Aug. 23.—Democrats of the tenth district at Webster City, have nominated Hon. John C. Leggitt of Mason City for congress.

Republican Resolutions.

PORTLAND, Me., Aug. 23.—The independent republican party adopted the following platform.

1st. Thorough and systematic reform of civil service.

2d. Faithful execution of laws in all parts of the state, including the liquor law and law for observance of the Sabbath, having temperance without hypocrisy and prohibition without drunkenness.

3d. Strict economy in expenditures of public money and consequent reduction of taxes.

4th. Opposition to machine politics and boss rule, political assessments, bribery and fraud in controlling elections.

The Alabama Outrage.

NEW YORK, Aug. 23.—The Tribune thus editorializes the special telegram about the so-called negro revolt in Alabama: "The fabulous account is taken to pieces in our Washington dispatches. The county where this secret league is said to have been in existence for some years is a black district, where a strong anti-Bourbon candidate is running for congress. If the colored voters are not intimidated, another seat may be lost. Accordingly recourse is to be had to the old methods of intimidation. Evidence of a conspiracy is manufactured about as easily as tissue ballots."

Michigan Politics.

JACKSON, Aug. 23.—The republicans of the third congressional district to-day renominated E. S. Lacy. The democratic state convention chose C. C. Goodwin chairman and committees were appointed. It is understood the greenbackers want to head the ticket, and many delegates think this price of fusion too high and are disposed to nominate a straight ticket. An effort for fusion will, however, be made.

Greenbackers Talking Fusion.

GRAND RAPIDS, Aug. 23.—The state greenback convention elected W. D. [illegible] chairman and appointed committees. Two-thirds of the convention favors a fusion with the democrats, and the remainder violently oppose it. There is lively telegraph correspondence between here and Jackson, where the democrats are holding a convention.

Kellogg Accepts.

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 23.—Governor Kellogg went to Donaldsonville to-day, in response to an invitation of the republican convention of the 3rd congressional district, and was prevailed on to accept the nomination.

Connecticut Democrats.

NEW HAVEN, Aug. 23.—The democratic state central committee yesterday decided to hold the convention in Hartford, subject to the call of the chairman, early in September.

CURED OF DRINKING.

A young friend of mine was cured of an insatiable thirst for liquor, which had so prostrated him that he was unable to do any business. He was entirely cured by the use of Hop Bitters. It allayed all that burning thirst, took away the appetite for liquor, made his nerves steady, and he has remained a sober and steady man for more than two years, and has no desire to return to his cups. I know a number of others that have been cured of drinking by it.—From a leading R. R. official, Chicago, Ill.—Times.

The Queen Discharging.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 23.—The steamer Queen of the Pacific will discharge at San Luis Obispo about 700 tons of railroad iron. She is expected to arrive there about the 30th inst.

B. B. Redding's Funeral.

The funeral of the late B. B. Redding took place this afternoon at the First Congregational church. Large delegations were present from the Central Pacific railroad company's offices, Academy of Sciences and regents from the state University. Services were attended by a very large number of friends and acquaintances of deceased.

New Officials.

Chas. A. King was to-day appointed postmaster at Frisco, Utah, in place of Chas. E. Hopkins, resigned; and Simon Cohn, at New Jerusalem, Ventura county, Cal., and Frederick Henning, at Forsythe, Custer county, Montana.

Brutal Murder.

VISALIA, Aug. 23.—To-day Ben Harris, a colored man living near here, shot and mortally wounded his wife, killed his step daughter fourteen years old, and severely wounded another step daughter aged ten, with an ax. Harris escaped before the news of the tragedy reached town. Thirty men are in hot pursuit of the murderer.

Murder in San Diego County.

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Aug. 23.—News was received by the sheriff this morning of the murder of Dan. B. Arguillar, on Monday, near his home in Ginty valley, about fifty miles from this city. There was a gunshot wound in the right side and another in the head. The body was found lying near the fork of the road. Deceased was an old resident of the county and highly respected.

A Murderer's Journey.

FRESNO, Aug. 23.—Ben Harris, the negro who murdered his wife and child near Visalia, yesterday afternoon, is now supposed to be making his way north along the foothills. He is armed with a shotgun.

ARIZONA.

Arizona Republican Resolutions.

TUCSON, Aug. 23.—The following is a synopsis of the republican platform adopted yesterday at the territorial convention: It declares allegiance to the national republican platform of 1880, holds that all railroad and other corporations should be subject to the people through the legislature, declares in favor of maintaining free public institutions, holds that appropriations for the support of hostile Indians is too great, and that hostile tribes should not be kept fed and supported by the public treasury, and is in favor of disarming them, declares against Chinese immigration and free system of public offices, claims that a reorganization of the judicial system is necessary, demands that territorial and federal legislation should be had to discourage mining litigation and to render mining titles more secure, and declares in favor of free and unlimited coinage of silver upon the same terms and under the same regulations as gold.

Stage Robbers Caught.

GLOBE, Aug. 23.—The men Curtis B. Hawley, Lafayette Grime and Cicero Grime, who robbed Wells, Fargo & Co.'s express and killed Andy Hall, the messenger, and D. W. F. Vail, on the 20th, have been apprehended and will certainly pay the penalty of their terrible acts with their lives. Lafayette Grime has made a full confession, recounting every particular. It is a question in the present excited state of the citizens whether or not they will be allowed a preliminary hearing. The five thousand dollars are not yet recovered. Hawley, the ringleader, is an old offender, and one of those engaged in the Mountain Meadow massacre.

WASHINGTON TERRITORY.

Political Notes.

WALLA WALLA, Aug. 23.—At the republican primaries to-day the vote was very light. Brents' friends claim the success of his ticket, but things were badly mixed. The county convention meets on the 30th of August. Returns so far are only from the two Walla Walla precincts. There are 25 votes here and 47 in the whole county.

BY STATE TELEGRAPH.

Railroad Work in Southern Oregon.

ROSEBURG, Aug. 23.—Mr. Ruckarty will commence work on the Myrtle creek depot to-morrow. The track will be completed to Riddleville by August 29th. Mr. Harris left Myrtle creek for the front to-day.

CANADA.

The Forestry Congress.

MONTREAL, Aug. 22.—There was a large attendance at the evening session of the American forestry congress. The first address was by John H. Eaton, commissioner of education, who deplored the general absence of forests both in the United States and Canada. He was followed by Dr. Loring, president of the congress, who delivered a most entertaining address, speaking up to a late hour, when the sitting closed.

Officers Elected.

MONTREAL, Aug. 23.—The American forestry convention elected the following officers: Hon. Mr. Loring, president; Hon. J. H. Joly, first vice president; Dr. J. A. Worder, second vice president; W. S. Little, of Montreal, secretary; Jos. S. Fay, of Mass., treasurer. Adjourned.

Fishing Parties Stopped.

KINGSTON, Ont., Aug. 23.—The fishery inspector has stopped Americans from fishing in Canadian waters. A number of steam yachts and small boats have been operating in the vicinity of Wolfe and Simcoe island, and the inspector informed them they had no right there unless licensed. Some tourists declined at first to stop, but did so on a threat being made that the boats would be seized.

Kangaroo Shooting in Queensland.

Now we are all in our places, some hidden behind bushes, others ensconced behind an artificial gunnery. Lying down, peeping through the leaves, the plain, far, far away, seems to begin to undulate. It is a mob of kangaroos that causes this appearance. As they draw nearer they remind you of a band of porpoises at play. Ostrich-like, instinctively one crouches lower. Close to the ground you hear a "thud," "thud," thud," with two or three seconds interval between the sound of each jump. Now it stops, for the "old man kangaroo" has an unpleasant, if not a tingling, recollection of this sport last year. But the guns are down wind and well hidden. "Thud," "thud," again, nearer and clearer, and now you catch sight of the leader of the mob; he is close to you. You rise and pour into his hind quarters—for, unlike all other game, it is more deadly to shoot them well behind—three and one-quarter drams of powder, one and one-eighth ounces of BB shot. Down he goes with a heavy flop and grunt. Ping goes the other barrel. Still they come on each side of you. Oh, for a loader! You have just time to stuff another cartridge into the right hand barrel and send it after the last of the mob. Your neighbors, too—who in all likelihood "know the sound full well," and have been watching the advance with perhaps less excitable but not less keen interest than you—have also risen and discharged a volley. Down you sink again behind your shelter, and the silence is only broken by the expiring grunt and final kick of that "old man" who dies hard. This is the first mob. Stillness now for ten minutes or so reigns, unless broken by an occasional rustle in the grass. You get up and see a wallaby, with head down, going full lick through the grass; he presents to you a shot just like a rabbit in covert. And now every three or four minutes you hear the "distant and random gun" of your fellow sportsmen, for the marsupials are coming well. You detect the sound of the stock-whip. Another volley. What unearthly sound is that you hear now? Is it human? Darwinians might say "no." But you, on looking, see what at first sight you might take for Pandemonium let loose, for, screeching, yelling, whooping, grunting like pigs, come the niggers, King Billy resplendently red and goldly gleaming in the midst. Sitting upon their horses' necks like monkeys on a tree, waving their handkerchiefs and cracking their stock-whips, one is not surprised that it requires a great orator to make the colonial whites believe that these are really friends and brothers. The manager, assisted by a few stockmen, keeps them in excellent order. The sport now becomes fast and furious. Volley-firing has commenced, and the distracted marsupial is having a rough time of it. Work as you may, although your cartridges do not stick, you cannot load fast enough. At length the drive is over. You take out a knife, and going to the spot where you hear the kicking, you administer the coup de grace. Sometimes a kangaroo with broken leg will "chair up" and look like fight. But there are plenty of stones about, to heave "arf a brick" at him, or hit him behind the ear with a good thick waddy, and he is soon finished. Now the guns come up congratulating each other upon the success of the drive, varied by the usual interchange of conversation where a lot of strange guns shoot together—"I say! your shot came precious near to my head." But on the whole, at this drive, and at all the other drives we had afterwards, I only heard of one of the party getting very slightly peppered. The perpetrator was voted a dangerous shot, although it was universally admitted he never shot any one else again; indeed, for my part I do not think he had another chance, for I noticed that every gun during the week that was placed within a quarter of a mile from him took good care to let a big tree intervene between him and them. Thus the Australians have as wholesome dread of being peppered as an Englishman, though in other things they have a comparative disregard for life.—The London Field.

Washington Territory.

The tax levy of Yakima county this year is 11½ mills.

It is estimated that it will take the Ainsworth sawmills three months steady work to put the Yakima drive into lumber. At present 75,000 feet are being turned out daily and as soon as the double shift goes on the cut of 24 hours will be 100,000 feet. About [illegible] men are employed.

THE WAR IN EGYPT.

The Fresh Water Canal Cut Near Ismailia.

THE ANNUAL RISE OF THE NILE ALREADY COMMENCED.

Arabi's Troops Intrenching Near Ismailia—Arab Looters Shot by the British—DeLesseps Receives an Explanation.

SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.

A Victory for the British.

LONDON, Aug. 22.—Daily Telegraph Port Said dispatch: Naval authorities are organizing a police force. The prisoners taken at Shaluf declare the defeat of the enemy there Sunday was a terrible beating for Arabi Pasha. At six o'clock this morning the gunboat Mosquito crossed Bitter lake and shelled Baid station. Subsequently troops landed from the gunboat and found the place deserted, while large portions of Arabi's cavalry were seen streaming towards the desert.

Arabi's Movements.

ALEXANDRIA, Aug. 22.—The smoke of numerous trains is again visible behind the enemy's lines. The activity of Arabi Pasha has increased in a manner indicating a complete change in his plans. In answer to our reconnoisance to-day his guns opened fire from various directions, showing that during the night the enemy's artillery had been much strengthened. A new battery armed with six guns has been placed in position. It now seems that at the first scare caused by the discovery that the fleet had gone to the canal Arabi Pasha withdrew a great proportion of his infantry to Damanhour, but that last night, considering some time must elapse before an advance can be made from Ismailia with sufficient force to carry his defenses on the line up to Zagazig, he again advanced to his old position, which he hopes to hold until the rise of the Nile enables him to flood the country.

The Nile Rising.

Riaf Pasha has arrived. The Nile is rising.

General Wolseley Explains.

LONDON, Aug. 23.—Daily News dispatch:

ISMAILIA, 9 A. M.

Landing of the troops from the transports proceeded actively all night, and continues to-day. The orderly behavior and general bearing of the soldiers is the admiration of the entire population. General Sir Garnet Wolseley visited DeLesseps yesterday and explained the action of the British in regard to the Suez canal. He said everything would be over in a few days, but that the English must use the canal. DeLesseps expressed himself fully satisfied with General Wolseley's explanation and he regretted there had been any misunderstanding. Yesterday afternoon the 72d regiment engaged the enemy at Serapeum and repulsed them. Two of our men were killed and five wounded. The enemy lost 100 men and four guns.

Serapeum Occupied.

LONDON, Aug. 22.—Daily News dispatch:

SUEZ, Aug. 21.

Four hundred men of the 72d regiment left this A. M. for Serapeum. When they reached that village they found it deserted and railway stock carried off. From the end of Bitter lake the enemy were seen in large numbers three miles off, retreating north. The Highlanders who participated in the fight at Shaluf, yesterday occupied the fresh water canal lock at Serapheum, an important position from which the enemy retreated. Prisoners taken state Arabi forced them to fight, threatening to have them shot if they refused. They say the chief officers fled after the action began. The success of the British forces at Shaluf, and the energy displayed by them in searching the coast towards Ismailia, demoralized the enemy. Opposition on this side of the canal may be considered ended.

Arabi's Force Increasing.

LONDON, Aug. 23.—Daily Telegraph dispatch from Alexandria: The report that Arabi Pasha withdrew a considerable number of troops from our front is quite incorrect, and on the contrary the enemy's trains have brought in more cavalry. I can state, officially, that about two miles out on the road to Kafr el Dwar they have thrown up new earthworks which are stronger than we actually face.

Arabi Dines with DeLesseps.

ISMAILIA, Aug. 23.—Arabi Pasha was here three days ago and dined with DeLesseps. He reported his troops at Tell el Kebir as strongly intrenched. Seven more of Arabi Pasha's officers surrendered Tuesday. They allege many more officers and men wish to surrender but are afraid, owing to Arabi's spreading reports that the English shoot all prisoners. Nefiche forms our advance post, and thence a chain of sentries extend around Ismailia. The nearest camp of the enemy is at Ramses, and the next at Poly, 14 miles away, while their new position is 34 miles distant.

Major-General Sir Edward Hamley's division has been ordered to come on here at once.

A company of engineers is repairing the railway to Nefiche. They are supplying locomotives with a quantity of coal captured from the enemy.

The household cavalry has now landed.

Some compromising telegrams from DeLesseps to Arabi Pasha have been intercepted.

Notes from the Canal.

PORT SAID, Aug. 23.—Natives are now returning and resuming work.

It is reported from Ismailia that a force of the enemy, numbering about 30,000 troops, has taken up a position 10 miles distant from there.

Disembarkation of troops will be completed to-morrow.

ISMAILIA, Aug. 23.—Since the engagement at Shaluf the enemy has left every position they held between Suez and Ismailia and are retreating in disorder toward Zagazig.

Indian cavalry will come on here.

Canal Notes.

PORT SAID, Aug. 23.—British have captured Ruchidi Pasha, formerly the khedive's minister of finance. Sulafar Pasha, of the khedive's household, who espoused the cause of Arabi Pasha, has been arrested. The police arrested 10 Greeks pillaging in Arab quarters of Ismailia, and ten prisoners were shot.

Water in the fresh water canal is falling perceptibly at Ismailia, and it is feared Arabi Pasha has diverted its course. The canal company has issued a notice requesting economy in use of water. Arabs have reoccupied Fort Ghemileh and are erecting entrenchments in the vicinity.

Austrians taken in by Arabi.

The Austrian gunboat Nautilus, bound from Port Said to Alexandria, passed Aboukir on Monday. The commander, seeing a white flag flying at Aboukir forts, supposed they were in British possession and sent a boat ashore with an officer and 12 men, who were made prisoners by the Egyptians.

Aid for Arabi.

TRIPOLI, Aug. 23.—It is stated that Arab tribes, holding territory eastward of Bengazi, are preparing to assist Arabi Pasha. A powerful chief, who is at the head of the national movement at Tripoli, is said to favor assisting Arabi.

Egyptians Burning Villages.

ALEXANDRIA, Aug. 23.—Fires were observed last evening in the neighborhood of Aboukir and Kafr el Dwar. It is believed part of the Egyptian force is burning villages either during or preparatory to retreat.

Alexandria Notes.

ALEXANDRIA, Aug. 23.—The transports California and Caspian have arrived.

The Austrian admiral has sent the Nautilus to Aboukir.

There are increased signs of Arabi Pasha's retiring from Kafr el Dwar.

Mules for Egypt.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 23.—The English steamship Castalia has been chartered to load 500 mules at this port to be taken to Alexandria for the British government.

The Sultan Afraid.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Aug. 23.—It is stated the sultan hesitates to ratify the military convention with England on account of anonymous threatening letters from Syria, Arabia and Egypt. It is reported the porte has received unfavorable dispatches from Syrian governors.

A Journal Suppressed.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Aug. 23.—The Vakit has been suppressed for publishing news hostile to the English.

Turks for Egypt.

Two Austrian Lloyd steamers, with Turkish troops on board, have passed Rhodes steering southeast.

Haidar Pasha, formerly Egyptian minister to France, on invitation of the khedive will start for Alexandria by a special steamer.

A Position Explained.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Aug. 23.—Ahmed Essed Effendi, sheikh-ul-islam, in an interview with Lord Dufferin yesterday explained the origin of the Egyptian revolt with the statement showing that the sultan contributed thereto. He also declared the sultan regarded Arabi Pasha as a rebel.

Change of Programme.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Aug. 23.—In consequence of representations made by Lord Dufferin, the porte has authorized exportations of mules from Smyrna for British service in Egypt.

BY ATLANTIC CABLE.

Secretary Trevelyan at Belfast.

LONDON, Aug. 23.—Trevelyan, chief secretary for Ireland, has arrived at Belfast. The mayor presented him with an address of welcome and expressed the desire of the residents to strengthen Trevelyan's hands in his onerous duties. Trevelyan, in reply, said it would be idle to deny the existence of personal danger in the task of governing Ireland. The remedy against outrages was to have a tribunal which could be trusted to do justice without fear. When the Irish people are convinced they can have a verdict according to the evidence it will have an important effect. Those who expected agrarian crimes would suddenly cease were expecting an[illegible]. The [illegible] to distinguish between [illegible] and political [illegible]. They do not care to concern themselves with politics [illegible], but against outrages they are determined to wage an unflying, unrelenting war. The remarks of Trevelyan were received with cheers. Trevelyan subsequently visited the iron works. Flags were displayed on houses and on vessels in the harbor in honor of the visit of the chief secretary.

Judicial Compliments.

LONDON, Aug. 23.—At the close of the commission [illegible] Lawson complimented the jurors on the way they discharged their duties in convicting every case except one trial, [illegible] who gave fair ground for dissatisfaction. He thought the attorney general exercised wise discretion in removing the venue of the recent trials to Dublin.

Provincial Notes.

LONDON, Aug. 23.—Of ten persons arrested for connection with the murder of the Joyce family five are named Joyce, four Casey and one Philbin.

At a meeting of the Oldham spinners' limited companies to consider the advisability of a week's stoppage of mills replies on the question were found to be such that it was resolved to let each branch adopt its own course. The spinning trade is in a deplorable state and the most recent takings of stock show no profits.

In the election for a seat in the house of commons for Haddington boroughs, made vacant by the resignation of Sir David Wedderburn, liberal, Sellar received 884 votes against 594 for Carr, conservative.

Death of Guildford Onslow.

LONDON, Aug. 23.—Guildford Onslow, formerly member of parliament and well known as the friend and advocate of the claimant in the Tichborne case, is dead.

The Cong Outrages.

A dispatch to the Daily News from Cong, Ireland, says prisoners are described by the people as the ten biggest devils in the country. Witnesses gave evidence with the greatest firmness and without hesitation. Police protection was necessary as the entire population are their body guard. The people shook hands with witnesses saying "God bless you" and expressing gratitude and joy that the murderous gang at last had been run to the earth. During the investigation the prisoners put questions which only helped to show their guilt.

The Joyce Verdict.

CONG, Aug. 23.—The coroner's jury in the Joyce case found a verdict of murder by persons unknown.

Dying of Paralysis.

DUBLIN, Aug. 23.—It is stated that Chas. J. Kickham, a fenian, is dying of paralysis.

Outrages in Syria.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Aug. 23.—A Christian is reported assassinated at Beyrout and several others are said to have been maltreated at that place. The Druses of Lebanon have attacked several Maronite villages. The governor of Damascus has asked for strong reinforcements.

The Correct Idea.

PARIS, Aug. 23.—La France devotes a leader to pointing out that England's action with regard to Suez canal may one day be used against her by the United States in support of their claims to exclusive control of the Panama canal.

Bulgarian Troubles.

SOFIA, Aug. 23.—The portion of Bulgaria recently placed in a state of siege has been divided into four districts, each under a military commission. An active member of the liberal party has been arrested at Varna.

Gen. Haldhers, minister of war, has gone to Russia on a furlough.

The Mosel Not Sunk Yet.

LONDON, Aug. 23.—The steamer Mosel, which stranded under Lizard station August 9th, still holds together, but has been rolling heavily. She may possibly last another fortnight.

Exodus of Refugees.

CETTINGE, Aug. 23.—Prince Nikita having ordered discontinuance of relief of refugees from Bosnia, 2300 refugees, all carrying arms, have been obliged to leave the principality.

Received by the Czar.

ST. PETERSBURG, Aug. 23.—Lieutenant Berry, who commanded the Rodgers, and Engineer Melville, of the Jeannette, will be received by the czar this afternoon. They will start for home to-morrow.

Cholera at Manila.

MADRID, Aug. 23.—It is officially announced that all vessels arriving from Manila will be quarantined on account of the prevalence of cholera there.

A Bust of Longfellow.

LONDON, Aug. 23.—A committee is being formed to arrange for placing a bust of the poet Longfellow in Westminster Abbey.

A Squeeze from a Boa.

In the summer of 1880 I got a nasty squeeze from a big python in the Jardin Zoologique at Antwerp, which laid me up for several days. I had observed this snake, a female, about 14 feet long, in one of the dens, and from the white efflorescence about her lips knew that she was suffering from caries of the jaw with ulceration of the mucous membrane, so fatal to snakes in confinement; and having pointed this out to M. Vekemann, the resident director, I obtained his permission to make trial of an ointment which I believed I had found efficacious in the early stage of the disease among my own snakes. Now, as ill luck would have it, the regular keeper was absent on this particular morning, and his place was filled for the time by another from some other part of the gardens, who spoke nothing but Flemish, of which tongue I am as profoundly ignorant as he most certainly was of the creatures under his temporary charge. I went into the den with him, taking it for granted, of course, that he was accustomed to snakes, and gave him the box of ointment to hold until I was ready to use it. When I had brought the pythoness fairly down to the floor, I gripped her hard by the neck, which had the effect, as I intended it to have, and as it always has with snakes, of making her open her mouth. I pressed her head away from me at the same time to prevent her catching hold of any part of my clothing in her efforts to bite. In her fright and rage, she drew her body up across my back and twisted her tail round and round my other arm. All that I now required of the keeper was, by teasing or pinching her here and there, or by unwinding the tail when necessary, to cause her to shift her coils constantly and prevent her resting long enough on one spot to apply undue pressure. My face I could protect for myself with the left hand. This I concluded he understood, as a matter of course. I turned round to make a sign to him to be ready and to give me the ointment, when, judge of my dismay as I caught sight of his stolid face, with a sort of dull impartial interest on it, looking at me through the glass in front, and the door closed on the outside! He had got frightened by the noise of the other pythons, and had quietly gone out again. I was about to make an impatient gesture, when in that same instant the serpent tightened on me so suddenly and violently that I momentarily lost consciousness. I then found myself staggering about the den, fighting for life. I expected to feel my ribs give way every moment, yet my chief fear at the time was of falling through the glass. I pushed the reptile's head away from me with all my might, lest it should cross my breast, and I can remember catching sight of myself, a mulberry-colored figure, in the mirror. I knew, too, that I was trampling about over the other pythons, who, furious at the disturbance, were now darting about the den above and all around me in every direction; and I exerted every energy to keep my feet, for I had presence of mind enough left to know that if I went down it would be all over with me. The heat was stifling. I could bear it no longer; the cage spun madly round and round before my eyes, and everything seemed to flame and roar. I let go the head. The snake twisted sharply back over my right shoulder close to my face, but did not bite me, and slid off on to the ground. I just recollect falling against the door with outstretched hands, but nothing more until I found myself on the steps outside, coughing violently, while the phlegmatic keeper was putting a hot key down my back, for some occult reason. I brought up a little blood, and drank a little brandy, after which I soon got better; but I was not well enough to walk home, and the bruise in my side did not fade for many a day. I suppose the whole affair did not last more than a few seconds, but I found it quite long enough. Fortunately the snake had only a small part of her body across my left side and back; had she encircled me with a whole coil I should have been crushed like an egg-shell.—Chambers's Journal.

The Daily Oregonian.

THURSDAY MORNING, AUGUST 24, 1882.

A SELF SEEKER'S SCHEMES.

A stranger, on reading any of the Mitchell organs in the state, would conclude that everybody in Oregon is clamoring for the election of the "boss," as some of his followers have dubbed him, save the editor of THE OREGONIAN. The same stranger, if he should travel through the state and converse with the permanent citizens of any community in which he might happen to be, would soon find out the "boom" for Mitchell is altogether on paper, and on a very poor quality of paper at that; that these organs had grossly misrepresented public sentiment, and that while there is no great enthusiasm perhaps for any other particular individual candidate, there is a widespread and earnest opposition to the election of the man Mitchell. In some of the counties which have sent a republican representation to the legislature Mitchell's name was carefully kept out of the canvass last June, from a well-grounded fear that its introduction would have cost the party a defeat; in others, which also elected republicans to the legislature, the canvass was made on the implied ground at least of opposition to him, and in no instance will a county be represented in the legislature by republicans whose constituents fully recognized them as his supporters before the election. Now, is there any reason to believe that had he been prominent in the canvass last June, as he was four years previous, the result would have been different this year from what it was then, a democratic majority in both houses. Yet his followers, it is claimed, by their persistent urging of his name upon the members elect, have succeeded in securing the promise of a small minority of the republicans and one or two democrats to support him. With these as a nucleus he hopes by the party lash to whip in enough of the rest to secure the nomination of the party caucus, and thus gain further vantage ground in the contest. Followers of his, fed at the public crib and whose hopes of political crumbs in the future are based on the slim chances of his election, are and have been for weeks going up and down throughout the state button-holing members of the legislature and urging his name upon them. By every means known to tricky and unscrupulous politicians they are seeking to secure some countenance of his candidacy or acknowledgment of his false claims to support. It therefore becomes pertinent to inquire what are his claims. If they are valid, then the opposition of THE OREGONIAN ought not to be regarded by the members of the legislature when they come to cast their ballots. If they, however, are not based on good ground, or rather if they have no ground at all, and it can be shown that his past acts as a public man, his course as a politician, and his career as a senator have been such as render him unworthy of the honorable position to which he aspires, the man or the journal presenting these facts to the attention of the people and the members of the legislature, to whose hands the people have delegated their right to choose a senator, is entitled to a respectful consideration.

During the last ten years Mr. Mitchell has been in Oregon very little of the time. True he has, as might be said, vacillated between Washington city and the Pacific coast, only coming here when some political job was to be set up which he was afraid to trust entirely to his henchmen. The state in the meantime has grown into a great community; its industrial and commercial interests have assumed proportions and an importance which place them beyond the grasp of the mere politician as to their wants and make them fit subjects for the attention of a statesman. Oregon needs to represent her in the senate of the nation a man of broad views and commanding ability, a man of an ambition, not in the direction of his own political aggrandizement, or who seeks power that he may be able to confer favors upon those by whose aid he reaches the place of power, but whose ambition lies in the direction of the accomplishment of something for the state, in the direction of aid for the development of her wonderful resources and her advancement to the proud position among the other states of the union to which that development of her resources will bring her. Such men can be found, and the names of some of them will be presented to the legislature. Such a man the state needs, and such the people want; but they do not want a man whose whole history before the public shows that he is not a statesman, nor even a first-class lawyer, one who ever since he first came before the people of Oregon, when a matter has been presented for his action, has apparently never inquired "Is it right?" but "Is it expedient?" not "Do the people want it?" but "Will the people stand it?" not "Will it benefit the state of which I am the servant, or secure the integrity, respectability and harmony of the party of which I am a member?" but "Will it enure to my political designs and further my political objects?" Shaping his course by this policy, he has had no aims which were not selfish and no friends whom he has not attempted to use for political and selfish purposes. Those who would not join in and adhere to his plans for his personal schemes, he has ungratefully denounced, while those who at his bidding have been willing to "crook the pregnant hinges of the knee that thrift might follow fawning," have been in many cases made the recipients of favors, through his instrumentality, which they were unworthy to receive and he unfit to dispense. Such is the man and such have been in outline his methods, as a citizen, a politician and a senator, marked by injustice and abuse toward all who would not bind themselves in an unholy alliance to his fortunes by inconsistency as a partisan, unfaithful as a senator and corrupt as a politician; true only to his own personal and selfish ends. Because, year by year, the people are becoming more and more acquainted with his character in these respects, the number of those who oppose his further promotion is increasing, and their opposition more earnest and persistent.

His unfaithfulness as a senator was illustrated in his speech in defense of the giant corporations of the overland railroad companies, from which we gave extracts yesterday, his injustice toward all who, claiming to be republicans, have not been willing to come at his beck and call, is known, and instances of it and of his inconsistency, even as a partisan, will be fully shown hereafter.

PROTECTION AND WAGES.

The census of 1880 is full of excellent reasons why tariff revision in this country should be both immediate and permanent. Of course it does not discuss the question, but it collects and presents facts which with their relations carry their lessons to all who will study them. Among the false claims of protection which it explodes is the pretense that our almost prohibitory tariff makes work plenty and keeps wages high. Hardly any formal answer is needed to that assertion. The antagonistic relations of labor and capital in those sections whose industries are most strongly protected would be a sufficient reply; but the census report makes a more elaborate one though in the same direction. The man whom the government commissioned to make a report on the iron and steel industry is secretary of the American Iron and Steel Association, and not likely to furnish figures that tell against the protection theory, simply with that end in view. Iron and steel are the most heavily protected of all articles in common use. In 1880 there were 805 companies engaged in producing iron ore, and they produced 7,971,703 tons, employing to do the work 31,668 persons, at a daily cost of $31,791, a few cents over $1 per day for each person, which is less than the average of workers in any unprotected business in the country. The total number employed in the production of pig and bar iron and steel was 140,975, who received $184,925 a day, or $1 30 each, their service coming more under the head of skilled labor than that of the miners. This is certainly a beggarly pittance for skilled labor, and something that is without a parallel in less protected industries of the country.

The Free Trade League of New York has issued a pamphlet which deals in a forcible manner with the infant industry plan. In this connection it says: "In the first place, our infant industries are a century old. In the second, the compiler of these statistics acknowledges that our superior skill places the world at a disadvantage with us. Thirdly, our iron ore and coal are generally situated so close together that the former can easily be worked with the latter. Fourthly, while the iron and coal of Europe are far down below the surface, ours are almost upon it. Fifthly, our iron and coal supplies are in close proximity to the market. Sixthly, they are adjacent to the great food-producing center of the United States, which is relied upon to supply half the food eaten by the iron-workers of Europe. Therefore, without any protection at all, it is shown our iron masters could afford to pay one hundred per cent. more wages to their workmen than they do before foreign competition would affect them." But the protectionists do not care for demonstrations. When the next presidential campaign comes on they will have their threats to workingmen posted up in their furnaces, factories and mills, just as they did in 1880, and not until the people who labor turn their thinking to some account, stop striking and redress their grievances by voting will they make a positive advance toward independence and better circumstances.

It is said that the telegraph operators of New York and Brooklyn are arranging for a strike and have organized a secret association under the presidency of Mr. Campbell, who is the grand chief operator of the Consolidated Telegraphers' Protective Association. The telegraph business is good and there are few operators out of employment. The men are paid from $25 to $95 a month, and they claim that it is not enough, nor are they graded justly. The operators claim that some men are worth twice as much as others, and that there should be a fixed gradation of wages. The hours for operators are seven for night men and nine for day men. The operators at Denver, Col., (which is the repeating office for New Mexico, Colorado and a part of Arizona,) are on a strike. The Protective Association is the telegraphic branch of the Knights of Labor organization, and is a very strong body—including many of the best operators.

The Occident, organ of the Presbyterian church, published at San Francisco, has taken a new departure. Under the heading "The Theological Drift," its leading article of a week ago contains the following heterodox declarations: "The Bible is not Christianity. The Bible might be utterly destroyed to-day, but the gospel being so interwoven in history must live in the knowledge of men. The Bible is not the way of salvation; Christ is the way, and although the Bible were utterly unknown Jesus Christ is a fact in history. He lived, he died, he rose again; these things cannot be destroyed."

Although imprisonment for debt has been abolished in England, 5444 people were last year sent to jail for non-payment of debts. The explanation is that a court can commit for a period not exceeding six weeks any judgment debtor (owing under $250) who has, or since the debt of his judgment has had, the means to pay the sum in respect of which he has made default. If the debt exceeds $250 he can go through the bankruptcy court and begin again with obligations lifted.

The merchants of western Montana, it seems, are looking toward Portland for business quite as anxiously as we are looking toward them. Mr. T. G. Hathaway, of Eddy, Hammond & Co., of Missoula, one of the heaviest firms of western Montana, is in the city for the purpose of talking with our merchants and seeing what can be done in the way of establishing trade between the two points.

During eleven years of peace the ordinary debt of British India has increased from £37,000,000 to £157,000,000. In the meanwhile £142,000,000 has been expended on canals and irrigation works, and 3,000,000 people have died of starvation, although a famine fund of $15,000,000 has been expended.

Minnesota claims 40,000,000 bushels of wheat this year, against 30,000,000 in 1881. The largest average yield per acre ever harvested in the state was the crop of 1875, which was 17 bushels to the acre.

One shocking murder succeeds another. Within two months no less than eleven horrible murders have been committed in this region.

STOCK RANCH FOR SALE ON CAMAS PRAIRIE, IDAHO.

AN ENGLISHMAN WHO IS COMPELLED from personal reasons to return to England, offers for immediate sale his ranch and stock. The ranch consists of 321 acres of rich land, of which 150 acres are broken to plow, with three miles of fencing, large 12-roomed house, stabling for 14 horses, one large barn, one smaller barn, besides colt shed, implement house, pig houses, fowl houses, etc., and garden with young fruit trees. In addition to the above is a timber claim of 160 acres, partly planted with tree cuttings, but for which a title cannot be given. The improvements alone have cost $9,000, and the whole will be sold for $4,000 to an immediate purchaser; or the owner will sell the ranch, with improvements, stock, machinery, implements, etc., in one lot, for $9,000. The stock consists as follows: 20 brood mares of good American stock; one first-class stallion; 6 heavy work horses; 18 two-year-old colts; 21 yearling colts; 22 sucking colts; 2 small saddle horses; about 40 or 50 head of cattle; 24 large hogs; 100 chickens; Buckeye mower, reaper and harvester; one sulky plow; 1 breaking plow; 2 wagons; harness for six horses; 3 saddles; one seeder; one chaff cutter; harrows; implements of all kinds; carpenter's tools, etc., etc. The house is completely furnished and is well finished in every respect, with brick flue, two stoves, sewing machine, five good bedrooms, Blanchard churn, two guns, etc., etc., etc.

The ranch and stock, as they now stand, have cost the owner more than $19,000.

The climate is the healthiest in the world. The land joins the Reservation for one mile in length, thus ensuring a permanent range for stock. It is situated 2½ miles from the stage road between Lewiston and Mt. Idaho. For full address and further particulars apply at the Oregonian office, or to Messrs. Corbitt & Macleay, Portland. a24d2tw1t

She is ... feet long over all, 28 feet beam and 11 ... Her officers are as follows: ... captain; John Jaques, 1st officer; ... N. Hatch purser. Mr. A. ... is the first engineer, and Lewis ... chief engineer.

Her arrangements and fittings are such as to ... the traveling public safety, comfort ... The carpenter work has been ... under the care and direction of Mr. ..., the ... designer and builder of this ship. In re... storing her from the effects of the fire, and remodeling her, an ... which affords space for ... under ... six feet four ... the entire length of the vessel. There have also been fitted up ... state rooms and a very neat salon, the forward half to serve as the dining room and the after half as the social hall. In each there is an abundance of light and air. All around the upper deck there is a substantial rail, so that the passengers will have here an excellent promenade in pleasant weather at sea. From this deck there is easy access to the hurricane deck for those who may wish to go up higher in order to enjoy the scenery upon the passage.

Seventeen state rooms have been fitted up, of these 14 will be for the use of passengers. Extensive sky lights and companion ways make all parts of this finely arranged vessel easy of access for passengers and for freight.

The Yaquina is schooner-rigged, and has ample canvas to accelerate speed, under favorable circumstances to dispense with her steam power, and under adverse and trying circumstances to cope successfully with storms. Her rig is admirably adapted to prompt and safe handling. Probably she is the first vessel in this port to carry a couple of raffees, i. e.—two jib-headed sails as a substitute for the usual foretopsail. Her immense foresail is also somewhat novel in these parts and is so rigged that it can very easily be furled without going aloft to handle it. She has an inner and outer jib, and a large and very handy fore and aft mainsail. It can be reefed with great ease, and will serve the vessel finely if she is ever called upon to "lie to" in a heavy gale, or in waiting outside the bar for the tide.

Her rigging is all new; the running gear is of Manilla, and her standing rigging and steering gear is of the best wire rope. Everything, "alow and aloft," as well as connected with the hull, is of excellent quality and reflects great credit on all concerned in bringing this fine vessel to her present perfection. Her propeller is of 8 feet diameter and 12 feet pitch. Her engines with 60 lbs. of steam made 84 revolutions.

The trip down extended a little below St. Johns, at which point the vessel was headed for home—having made the distance in about an hour. The promptness with which she answered her helm was gratifying and somewhat remarkable. She was turned around almost in her own length, showing that her rudder arrangements are excellent.

The Yaquina is to sail for Coos Bay, Yaquina and way ports on Saturday next, the 26th inst., at noon. She will be open to the inspection of the public to-morrow afternoon and evening.

We are informed that it is the intention of her proprietor to send this steamer alternately on trips to Victoria, B. C., and Puget Sound ports, and to ports south of the Columbia river.

May the enterprising and genial owner of this handsome little steamship have the success he merits for the energy he has displayed in making headway so pluckily against the ill-waves of fortune is the wish of his many friends.

A NOTE OF INTRODUCTION TO THE PARENTS OF PORTLAND.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 10.

To THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

Ever since my delightful visit in Portland last January, and the intelligent and enthusiastic reception which was given me every time I spoke on the subject of the Kindergarten system, I have wished to help in the establishment of a first-class Kindergarten in your city. I then promised many of your leading citizens to send them one of my best pupils at the close of the year. I have done so, and in sparing Mrs. Dunlup from the work here I am confident of giving you a great treasure. If she receives the desired encouragement and patronage she will make her Kindergarten and connecting class a perfect example of all that it should be. In recommending her to the earnest, thoughtful mothers of Portland, I am doing them the greatest service in my power, and I am confident that in a city of such energy and enterprise a true Froebel Kindergarten will supply a deeply felt want. Mrs. Dunlup also contemplates sending for a trained assistant so that the children entrusted to her care may secure every attention. Accept these two faithful laborers in the field of a new and better education with my best wishes. Yours for the children's sake,

KATE D. SMITH WIGGIN,
Principal Cal. Kindergarten Training Class,
Supt. S. F. Free Kindergartens.

W. SCHEFFLER'S PURE WINES AND BRANDY.

It is universally conceded that Wm. Scheffler's, St. Helena, Cal., good old Port, Sherry, Amber, White Reseling, Hock, Muscat, Angelica and Claret Wines, as also his Sanitary vacuum distilled pure Grape Brandy, are really superior to other manufactures, not excepting that imported, the adulterations and impurities of which is now generally understood. Mr. Scheffler's goods are popularly known all over the Pacific coast. Eight-tenths of all the druggists in California, Oregon and Washington territory have adopted his goods, discarding the imported. Ask your druggist here in Portland, East Portland, or in any town in this northwest, and you will be quite sure to obtain it, as you will at most of the first-class hotels and bars. Mr. Scheffler's Wines and Sanitary Brandy have been steadily growing into favor until they are known well in almost every household as a medicine, if not otherwise. Mr. Scheffler's process of distilling in a vacuum is his own patent process, which relieves his brandy of the fusil oil, making it really pure, sanitary and healthful.

Mr. Geo. H. Be... ch, Mr. Scheffler's representative, is now up visiting his customers.

About Absinthe.

The consumption of this seductive, health-destroying liqueur appears to be on the increase, and is now, according to Winter Blyth, sold in a large number of places in Marylebone, for which parish he is the public analyst and medical officer of health. It seems to him, therefore, a right and proper thing to chemically examine samples of this liquid, which was done. Absinthe is a yellowish-green liqueur, which contains, as a peculiar ingredient a poisonous oil having a deleterious effect on the nervous system; the oil is called wormwood oil, and is produced in nature by the Artemisia absinthium. Other flavoring oils are always added, such as peppermint, angelica, cloves, cinnamon and anis-seed. The color is produced by the juice of nettles, spinach or parsely; or, in other words, is due to the common green "chlorophyll" found in all green plants. Most samples of absinthe contain sugar. The average composition of absinthe is as follows: Absolute alchohol, in 100 parts, 50; oil of wormwood, .33; other essential oils, 2.32; sugar, 1.50; chlorophyll, traces; water, 45.65. Alcohol causes drunken sleep; alcohol and absinthe combined produce convulsions. The poor wretches given up to absinthe drinking suffer from a peculiar train of nervous symptoms, the most prominent of which is epilepsy of a remarkably severe character, terminating in softening of the brain and death. The last moments of the absinthe-drinker are often truly horrible. M. Voisin recorded a case in which a man was picked up in the public street in an epileptic fit. He was known to be a large consumer of absinthe. The convulsions lasted until death—four days and four nights. During the last five or six hours of life the skin of the face became almost black.—British Medical Journal.

Had Skobeleff Lived.

The Spectator.

What is certain about Skobeleff is that he so typified the Russian character, so fulfilled the Russian ideal, so inspired the common Russian that the masses of the soldiery not only loved him, but held him the nobler man for sacrificing them in heaps. They distinctly reverenced him more after the awful slaughter at the Gravitza redoubt, when he lost 8000 men and failed after all, than they had done before. That is the Russian temper shown through all history toward all their military favorites—toward Suwaroff, for instance, whose hold over his soldiery was rivaled, not weakened, by the awful slaughter of the storm of Ismail, as well as toward Skobeleff; and that temper places in the hands of its object very terrible resources. He wields the authority not only of a general but of a religious leader like Mohammed; and, when he draws his recruits from a people like the Russians, can waste men with an indifference that paralyzes strategy. Such a man, so followed, can conquer in despite of science; and we do not wonder that the dread of Skobeleff among a people like the Germans, who are naturally kindly, but who understand war, suppressed the instinctive reverence for death, and that they received tidings of his fate with something of displeasing exultation. They remember what Zorndorf was, the battle in which the Russians were beaten from the first, but died in such masses that Frederick's army nearly perished in the huge killing; and they knew that with Skobeleff in command, if war broke out, Zorndorfs on a gigantic scale were more than possible. The Russian people would have formed column behind Skobeleff, till in defeating him, even if science had conquered in the end, Germany might have suffered as in the thirty years' war.

MASONS AT McMINNVILLE.

Laying the Corner Stone of a New Temple With Full Ceremonies by Grand Master J. N. Dolph.

The members of Union Lodge No. 43, A. F. & A. M., at McMinnville, having determined to erect a new hall, invited Grand Master Dolph to lay the corner stone on the 23d. Accordingly several prominently connected with the fraternity accompanied Grand Master Dolph to assist in the ceremonies. Among the number were J. R. Congle, I. W. Pratt, F. N. Shurtleff, T. M. F. Patton, H. Hoyt, of Portland, and ... of The Dalles ... arriving at McMinnville ... The procession was formed, headed by ... cellent brass band, and marched to the new temple, where the corner stone was laid with the impressive Masonic ceremonies, the following brethren acting as officers of the Grand Lodge: Grand Master, J. N. Dolph; Deputy Grand Master, F. N. Shurtleff; Senior Grand Warden, D. P. Mason; Junior Grand Warden, H. H. Hoyt; Grand Secretary, I. W. Pratt; Grand Treasurer, J. R. Congle; Grand Marshal, T. M. F. GARFIELD COUNTY NEWS.

[FROM THE OREGONIAN'S LOCAL CORRESPONDENT.]

POMEROY, W. T., Aug. 21.

The present month has been extremely hot for more than half the time. Two days the thermometer stood 150 degrees Fahrenheit in the sun, and 108 degrees in the shade. Less rain has also fallen in the last two months than in previous years at the same period.

Crops are better than the farmers looked for before the harvest began in the Snake river valley. They are lighter in this county than in Columbia. This is owing to better cultivation in the latter county. Our county is newer, the soil now cultivated is not well pulverized and too much sowing is done in the spring to assure good and full crops in a dry season. The vicinity of Pomeroy last year gave the largest average yield—more than 30 bushels per acre—in the territory, and even in the United States, but the rainfall of that season was very favorable. This year we have plenty and to spare for bread for our neighbors abroad.

The August term of commissioner's court did not close till Saturday evening. They did a large amount of work during their session of two weeks. The principal difficulty was in correcting the tax list which contained more errors than correct results of calculation. This board has offered a bounty of $5 for the scalps of cougars and panthers; for bears, coyotes and wolves, $1 50; for lynx, cat mounts and wildcats, $1. The sheepmen will meet September 30, and offer an additional bounty.

Large numbers of immigrants are coming into the county compared with what came last year up to the corresponding period. We have room for a few hundred more near Snake river, where will soon be the most profitable farms in the county, owing to their adaptability to fruit-growing.

Saturday afternoon last a well-raised stranger would have supposed Pomeroy to be the place that some revised-edition divines declare does not exist. There was cursing and blaspheming, fighting and threatening to fight for at least an hour. There had been a cayuse race that afternoon and the roughs were full of whisky, which excited their rage, and they tried to vent it upon all with whom they came in contact. Such scenes are only the ebullitions that reflect the depravity of those engaged in them; and, strange as it may seem, there were those engaged in the disgraceful melee who like to be thought leaders in good society; but such men are representative only of their kind—not of the respectable class of law-abiding citizens, who are the bone and sinew of the great country in which we live. The back doors of saloons here are kept open on Sunday in defiance of stringent laws which are not well enforced. Horse racing upon the Sabbath, too, is the favorite sport of, I am glad to say, only a small portion of our citizens.

The bills allowed at commissioners' court amount to $3,165 90.

STATE TEACHERS' ASSOCIATION.

A Large Attendance at the Annual Session in Salem Opening under the most Favorable Auspices.

The State Teachers' Association of Oregon convened at the state house in Salem Monday at 3 P. M. Prof. Powell, superintendent of public instruction, presided.

The meeting was held in the representatives' hall which was filled to overflowing.

The exercises were begun with music.

A well prepared address of welcome was written by Dr. L. L. Rowland, but being called away professionally, the manuscript was placed in the hands of his daughter, Miss Lewis, who read it with good effect. The address was ably responded to by Prof. O. B. Lee, of Eugene City.

Bishop Hurst, of the M. E. Church, then addressed the association. His address was scholarly and practical; just such as will make a lasting and beneficial impression on all who heard it. The bishop ranks among the ablest scholars of the age, and as a practical and zealous worker in the cause of education for the development of the best and purest thought.

Dr. Fowler, of New York, followed in a few remarks, in which he pressed upon the young the importance of thorough work in study and teaching.

The music was under the leadership of Prof. Shorter, and was enjoyed by all.

TUESDAY MORNING SESSION.

Supt. Powell called the meeting to order. Prof. O. B. Lee, of Eugene, was chosen secretary.

Prof. Stabler was called for and presided at the piano, while the audience sang "What a Friend we have in Jesus," followed by prayer by Prof. Emery, of Corvallis.

Taking up the programme, "Physical Geography" was presented by Prof. W. N. Ferrin, of Pacific University. He would teach physical geography in all the common schools, if not in class recitations, at least in occasional oral exercises. One thought advanced by the professor we think worthy of special mention, and should engage the attention of all practical teachers: viz., if it stirs the desire to ask questions upon the subject, it develops thought on the part of the pupil.

The subject of "Education and the State" was next presented in a well prepared article by Prof. C. W. Roby, of Portland public schools. Extracts from the essay would fail to do the speaker justice. Let it suffice to say it was eminently prepared with much thought and care, and was well received.

"Physical Geography" was taken up again by Prof. Powell, and after a few moments the discussion took, to some extent, the theory of teaching. Many teachers participated, and a lively discussion ensued.

At the close of discussion Miss Clawson, of Portland, was chosen assistant secretary.

Adjourned until 2 P. M.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

Meeting called to order by Superintendent J. J. Powell.

Singing by members of the institute.

Superintendent F. Rigler, of Polk county, then presented the subject, "Necessity for Better Teachers." The speaker urged the necessity of a state normal school, and the necessity of paying good wages to secure the services of the best talent in the profession, etc. At the close of the address the subject was discussed at some length by the institute.

After a piano solo by Miss Scott, Prof. J. T. Gregg discussed the subject of "Examination of Teachers." This subject also took a practical turn, and fitness as well as adaptation to teach was well ventilated.

Prof. Emery, Pres. Stanley, Sup't Powell and others made some good and forcible remarks concerning legislation in school matters, resulting in the appointment of a committee to canvass the subject and report before the institute to-morrow. The committee consists of the following: Messrs. Hutchins, Lane, Emery, Rigler and Sheak.

A committee on resolutions was also appointed, consisting of the following: Prof. Burke, Supt. Paxton and Supt. Miller. Adjourned until 8 P. M.

EVENING SESSION.

The exercises opened with music.

Prof. Draper was then introduced, with his talented little daughter, Lizzie, six years of age. The little lady at first was somewhat embarrassed, but she gained confidence as she proceeded, and handled arithmetical problems with wonderful rapidity and correctness.

Bishop Morris was next introduced, and gave a lecture replete with glowing truths and beautiful thoughts—to the audience an intellectual treat.

After some excellent vocal music there came a well-rendered recitation by Miss Nellie Powell of Albany.

Supt. Powell then announced the programme for to-day, when the institute was closed with music.—Statesman.

THURSDAY MORNING, AUGUST 24, 1882.

THE BLIND RECEIVING SIGHT.

He stood before the Sanhedrim;
The scowling Rabbis looked at him;
He recked not of their praise or blame;
There was no fear, there was no shame,
For one upon whose dazzled eyes
The whole world poured its vast surprise.
The open heaven was far too near,
His first day's light too sweet and clear,
To let him waste his new gained ken
On the hate-clouded face of men.

But still they questioned, Who art thou?
What hast thou been? What art thou now?
Thou art not he who yesterday
Sat here and begged beside the way,
For he was blind.
"And I am he;
For I was blind, but now I see."

He told the story o'er and o'er;
It was his full heart's only lore;
A prophet on the Sabbath day
Had touched his sightless eyes with clay,
And made him see who had been blind.
Their words pass by him like the wind
Which raves and howls, but cannot shock
The hundred-fathom-rooted rock.

Their threats and fury all went wide,
They could not touch his Hebrew pride;
Their sneers at Jesus and his band,
Nameless and homeless in the land,
Their boasts of Moses and his Lord—
All could not change him by one word.

"I know not what this man may be,
Sinner or saint, but as for me,
One thing I know, that I am he
Who once was blind, and now I see."

They were all doctors of renown,
The great men of a famous town,
With deep brows, wrinkled, broad and wise,
Beneath their wide phylacteries;
The wisdom of the east was theirs,
And honor crowned their silver hairs.
The man they jeered and laughed to scorn
Was unlearned, poor, and humbly born;
But he knew better far than they
What came to him that Sabbath day;
And what the Christ had done for him
He knew, and not the Sanhedrim.

—John Hay.

TOM HALIFAX, M. D.

She had been resting her head upon her hand, full of thought, when suddenly she heard the sound of horse's hoofs clattering down the street. She wondered who the rider could be, and looked up half startled. It was Dr. Halifax himself, and as he reached the gate he slackened his speed, and dismounting, came up the garden walk with a hurried step. She did not wait for the servants, but stepping into the hall flung open the shade blinds in response to his summons, and stood before him.

He certainly had not expected to see her, but he did not wince, merely bowing, and coloring slightly.

"I beg your pardon, Miss Ashby," he said; "but I have come to solicit charity on behalf of one of my patients. I am not a rich man myself," with the calm, handsome eyes on her face, "and your father told me that I might rely on him in this terrible trouble."

"I am very glad to be of service," said Bessie. "What is most needed, Dr. Halifax?"

He made a few suggestions, as he thought proper, and, under his directions, she filled a large basket with food and wine. It seemed as though he was at least ten years older, and Bessie's heart grew very full at the sight of his pale, grave face as she completed the task.

"Can I do nothing more?" she asked, as she gave him the basket. "Oh, Dr. Halifax, if I only could!" And in spite of herself, the thick gathering tears filled her eyes.

He looked surprised, and then his face softened. "Thank you," he replied. "I will remember what you have said."

When Tom Halifax mounted his horse again it was with a thrill of pleasurable pain and a backward glance at the slender figure on the piazza. He had looked down upon the pretty face beneath its veiling curls, the wet lashes and tremulous mouth, thinking a little sadly of the days when her eyes would have met his with a warmer glow. Yes, it all came to the same thing in the end. The old wound was not completely healed, and soft glance from the girlish eyes had it throbbing again almost as fiercely as ever. That night he came upon Captain Housted.

"Cannot I help you, Halifax?" said the kind-hearted fellow. "You are killing yourself. Let me do something, if it is only to grind powders."

"You must not run the risk of infection," said Tom. "You have something at home to take care of."

"Yes," said Captain Fred, "But I don't think the little somebody cares much." His voice had stopped a tone or so, and he was tapping his boots with his whip, as though musingly.

"Ask her," suggested Tom, with a short laugh that most choked him.

"I am going to ask her to-night," said the captain, raising his head suddenly, with a half smile. "It's all a lottery, you know. It remains to be proven whether my prize is a blank or not."

Three hours later Bessie stood with her cousin in the garden.

"It is no use," she said with impetuous tremor, "I don't love you, Cousin Fred—at least, not as I must love the man I marry. I thought I did, but lately"—she stopped, dropping her face, and then added, almost in a whisper—"I have been very wicked and foolish. Please forgive me."

The captain looked down a little gravely. "When did you change your mind, Bessie?"

"A few weeks ago, since this dreadful plague. It made me think, and I saw that—I had not been doing rightly."

It was fully three minutes before Fred Housted spoke again.

"See here, Bessie!" he said, at last, "I am learning something, too. I have never believed the gossip before now"—a moment's pause, and his smothered doubt burst forth: "Bessie, why did you quarrel with Tom Halifax?"

"Oh, Fred, don't!" she said.

"Don't cry," said Fred. "I want to know the truth."

I have said Bessie Ashby never did anything by halves. In her grief and excitement she forgot that she had flirted with her cousin; forgot about the "position;" forgot everything, but that she was frightened, and miserable and tired of acting.

"I have been so horribly selfish," she sobbed. "I didn't think I cared so much, and he was poor, and then we quarrelled, and I thought I could like you well enough. I don't think I should have been so wicked, but he was proud, and things got worse every day. But lately it has all come back, and I can't help it."

"You have not treated me well, Bessie," said the honest young captain after a short silence. "Men don't want women to marry them because they think they can like them well enough; but I think you see how you have wronged me. It is all over now, so we will say no more about it."

I have said before that hearts do not break. They may stretch and perhaps suffer a little in the rebound, but really breaking is out of the question; and warm and true though our brave captain's might be, it was not likely to disgrace the general India-rubber reputation by snapping, even in this painful strain; so pray do not blame poor, penitent Bessie for any misfortunes which may hereafter befall him.

The next morning Dr. Halifax met his rival in the street.

"I prophesied rightly, old fellow," said the gentleman, quietly. "The affirmative proves to be a negative after all."

"Madamoiselle is changeable," said Tom. "I hope I am not going to have you for a patient, Housted. You are as pale as a ghost."

"Broken heart," laughed the captain. "No, I don't think you will. The warmth gives me a slight headache; that is all."

But there was something more. As the day grew the slight headache became a severe one; throbbing and pulsating, the face flushed, and the strong limbs trembled and failed as they had never done before.

At about 6 o'clock, as Tom sat in his office writing out some prescriptions, Captain Housted entered the room and staggered into a chair.

"I am afraid you are going to have a patient, Halifax," he said, smiling feebly. "I feel rather faint." And as he said it he dropped his deathly face upon the table and lay there without moving.

He had braved it a long time, but the dreadful pest had come upon him at last. Tom sent for Colonel Ashby, and the sick man was carried home. At the door Bessie met them with a pale face but steady eyes.

"She ought to have been sent away," said Tom.

"But I am not afraid," she answered firmly. "Please let me stay."

I dare say you will decide that Dr. Halifax was shockingly unstable when I tell you that from that time his mind began to waver as regarded Bessie Ashby. Meeting her every day in her cousin's sick room it was not easy to feel cold and stern. She was so sweet and girlish in new humility, now the old capricious coquetry was thrown aside, and in all her appealing obedience to his orders he could not fail to see a little sensitive fear which sometimes troubled, but always stirred his heart. He must take care of her, too; every shadow that crossed the pretty face must be inquired into. He was not going to fall in love again, of course; he was merely doing his duty as a medical man. Still, it was rather interesting.

Captain Housted was the last serious case of sickness, but was a very severe one. For months the poor fellow's life lay trembling in the balance—one day fevered and delirious, the next seemingly sinking into death. But in time he began to struggle through it, and thanks to Tom's skill and patience, the shadowy face began to light with a faint glimmer of returning strength.

Gradually the fearful scourge weakened its power, and little by little seemed passing away. There were still patients to be visited, and work to be done, but the awful rage of the pestilence had swept by. Then it was that Tom Halifax began to reap his reward. People who had never heard his name six months before sent for him in all critical cases. Men of wealth and high standing in society courted his acquaintance as the brave young doctor who did his work so nobly through the sickness at Deering. Men and women pointed him out to each other on the street, saying: "But for him I should have been laid in my grave." "When my old mother died he was the last man she knew." "When we were in trouble he worked for us day and night. God bless him!" Had there been nothing else, the warm, loyal young heart would have thrilled with tender thankfulness at the simple gratitude of the humble sufferers to whom he seemed almost a savior, but apart from this reality came to him.

There was no lack of practice now, and the name and fortune that had seemed so far away a year ago, became a promise of truth. Of course as yet they were not quite perfected, but still each day brought them nearer, and showed something of a solid advancement in life and prospect. The Chateaux en Espagne were beginning to stand on a substantial foundation. Perhaps this might have made him very happy. Naturally he felt thankful, but, being a very warm-hearted and in some things a very unscientific M.D., he could not feel quite restful.

The truest of all truths is that whatever we love we can forgive, and whatever we forgive it is not difficult to love. Bessie Ashby had refused Captain Housted. Why had she done it? Could it be that her foolish little heart was subdued at last? It is easy to be magnanimous when one has been injured, and it is hard not to be magnanimous when the injurer is a pretty girl whom one has loved. If this were more than a simple record, I should decide that my hero should not forgive my heroine under any circumstances, and consequently should doom them both to misery and despair. But as it is, I am compelled to say that Tom Halifax, M.D., forgave Bessie Ashby, for the simple reason that, in spite of all her faults, he loved her.

And Bessie? During her cousin's sickness she had learned the extent of the M.D.'s power. She had found out that she could look to him and rely on his strength, that she could trust him implicitly. She began to discover that he had a bigger object in view than the regard for self, which had been the one ruling power of her life, and his example taught her the true nobility of generous sacrifice. Still, in spite of the change in the hearts of both, they had not advanced much outwardly from the old coldness. But in the second month of Captain Housted's illness, the denouement came, as a denouement always comes, unexpectedly.

One evening after there had been a slight return of the fever, and after a heavy sleep, the patient awakened, restless and wandering. Bessie was standing at one side of the bed, and Dr. Halifax at the other, holding the captain's hand as he opened his eyes.

"It was you she loved after all, Halifax," he said, smiling faintly. "I am only Cousin Fred.'"

The blood rushed into Bessie's face. The handsome eyes told her they understood—told with one glance that burnt her cheek and set her heart beating swiftly. The next moment she brushed by him and left the room.

Half an hour after Dr. Halifax came down stairs and walked straight into the parlor as though with some object in view. A very pretty figure stood revealed in the dusky light by the window—a pretty head. With long, shining curls resting upon an equally pretty hand. I wondered if Miss Ashby knew what was coming? Certainly her pulse fluttered very fast, and she looked out into the garden very resolutely.

"Bessie!"

She did not move.

"Bessie!"

He certainly was a determined gentleman, this Dr. Halifax, for he drew the pretty hands away and turned Miss Ashby to the light.

"Was it true?" he whispered, bending very low over her.

The long curls drooped a little nearer. It really looked as if Miss Ashby was going over to the enemy.

"I—I think it was," she said very softly. "I think it has been true for a long time, Dr. Halifax."

It was dreadfully undignified, but Miss Ashby has positively made an unconditional surrender, and the curls lay in a shining heap against his shoulder.

"My dear little girl," he said tenderly, kissing the pretty, tremulous face. "My dear little girl, how happy you have made me."

What more have I to say? I have ended my record, bringing hero and heroine through their adventures, and leaving them all in a properly dramatic position. I have only to tell you that Captain Housted has proved my theory of the elasticity of hearts, and recovering from his sickness, recovered from his disappointment in a very sensible and decorous manner. In all probability he forgot his penchant for brown eyes and married a blonde. If he did, could there be a better proof that is a lottery, and "variety the spice of life?"

Summary Matchmaking.

A farmer from Germantown, Pa., came yesterday to Castle Garden in search of a young married couple to take into his service. His name was Amos Miller, and he was of a jolly and benevolent temperament. He was willing to give $15 a month and board to a man and his wife, who would accompany him to his home. Unfortunately there happened at the time to be no couple at the garden who were desirous of obtaining such a situation as he offered. Not to be discouraged, however, he set about finding two single young persons of opposite sex who might not be averse to uniting their lives and their luck. He first accosted a number of men who looked like honest, amiable fellows, and among them discovered one whose fancy was taken by the picture which he held up to him of a cosy rustic home and a good natured young wife to keep it, all to be acquired by a single and very simple transaction. This negotiation settled, he sought for a damsel to match the willing swain, and it was not long before he succeeded in obtaining from such a one her shy consent to change her condition. He immediately brought the future husband and wife together, in spite of their sudden confusion and assumed reluctance. Once presented to each other, they found no difficulty whatever in making an acquaintance, through the medium of their native tongue, the German. She was Rosina Haeffner, nineteen years of age, and he was Adam Horner, twenty-five. The Rev. Mr. Berkemeier, was summoned and in the employment office he united them by the time honored tie that man is solemnly forbidden to sunder. A matron and an officer attached to the department of emigration served as bridesmaid and best man. The couple embraced with hearty satisfaction and went away, leaving smiling faces behind them.—N. Y. Herald, 19th.

WICKED FOR CLERGYMEN.

Rev. ——, Washington, D. C., writes: "I believe it to be all wrong and even wicked for clergymen or other public men to be led into giving testimonials to quack doctors or vile stuffs called medicines, but when a really meritorious article made of valuable remedies known to all, that all physicians use and trust in daily, we should freely commend it. I therefore cheerfully and heartily commend Hop Bitters for the good they have done me and my friends, firmly believing they have no equal for family use. I will not be without them.—New York Baptist Weekly.

The Purest and Best Medicine ever Made.

A combination of Hops, Buchu, Mandrake and Dandelion, with all the best and most curative properties of all other Bitters, make the greatest Blood Purifier, Liver Regulator, and Life and Health Restoring Agent on earth.

No disease can possibly long exist where Hop Bitters are used, so varied and perfect are their operations.

They give new life and vigor to the aged and infirm.

To all whose employments cause irregularity of the bowels or urinary organs, or who require an Appetizer, Tonic and mild Stimulant, Hop Bitters are invaluable, without intoxicating.

No matter what your feelings or symptoms are what the disease or ailment is use Hop Bitters. Don't wait until you are sick but if you only feel bad or miserable, use them at once. It may save your life. It has saved hundreds.

$500 will be paid for a case they will not cure or help. Do not suffer or let your friends suffer, but use and urge them to use Hop B.

Remember, Hop Bitters is no vile, drugged drunken nostrum, but the Purest and Best Medicine ever made; the "INVALIDS FRIEND and HOPE" and no person or family should be without them.

D.I.C. is an absolute and irresistible cure for drunkenness, use of opium, tobacco and narcotics. All sold by druggists. Send for Circular. Hop Bitters Mfg. Co., Rochester, N.Y. and Toronto, Ont.

Eastern Freight Situation.

NEW YORK, Aug. 23.—The clipper freight market is very quiet. Thus there is no rise in freights, yet at the same time there is more or less freight to be sent forward, but it is of the coarse character and generally not in very large lots, except perhaps railroad iron, which in most cases forms at least one-quarter of the entire cargo of various vessels. However, it is not at all surprising that the market is dull, when the state of affairs is considered. We are now nearly at the close of the dullest period of the year, when it is both too late and too early to ship any but the most staple articles. Again the past season has been rendered more quiet by the fact that railroads have captured a number of the largest houses who were regular shippers throughout the year, and who were dependent upon during the dull season of the summer months to enable ships to meet with prompt dispatch. The outlook for the coming fall is very fair, yet much depends upon future events, prominent among which is the strike in the iron region, which if settled satisfactorily, will be the means of filling numerous orders, and will give clipper lines considerable freight. It will also enable outside parties to make consignments in competition with those who use railroads exclusively for transportation of their freights. Rates are quite steady. Tonnage is still in supply, but at the same time demands are limited, especially from California lines, who under the present state of the market save all they require for current wants. The ship Vigilant, which was under charter to load at Philadelphia, has been withdrawn, and will take a cargo of oil to Japan. Her owner expected she would follow the Levi C. Wade, but the agent had another vessel, hence the withdrawal of the Vigilant. Railroad and isthmus freights are also rather quiet, and there is nothing new to note by either route.

The merchandise market is generally quiet and steady. Speculation has quieted down in absence of any very promising fields. California products are dull, except wool, in which there have been sales of 25 bales and 17,000 pounds of spring at 20@32½c.

San Francisco Freight Situation.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 23.—Freights are quiet with an easier tone and reluctance on the part of exporters to charter at present rates. It is generally stated that a number ships could be placed at 52s 6d iron for orders, but this figure is not acceptable to holders of tonnage. There is more wheat to be had than formerly, but the supply is still light and this naturally restricts business and keeps prices at a very high point.

London Wool Sales.

LONDON, Aug. 23.—At wool sales to-day 11,000 bales were sold, chiefly Australian and Victorian. There was brisk competition and prices were firm.

I know that persons who are unfortunate enough to be afflicted by any form of sexual disease have a delicacy in calling upon the proper physician in the front, a sense of modesty and sometimes from ignorance, and permit those diseases to exist until their constitution become corrupted, their organization broken down, and the hope of future happiness blighted, until death, here now, a welcome messenger to carry them out of their miserable existence.

THE BARLOW ROAD.

THE MT. HOOD AND BARLOW ROAD COMPANY having recently purchased the franchise of the "Old Barlow Road" company, announce that their road across the Cascade Mountains is open for all kinds of travel. The company having constructed a branch road from Sandy P.O. to the Toll Gate on the south bank of the river Sandy, the travel will be able to avoid the long, tedious route over the "Devil's Back Bone," and the five miles of heavy sand on the old road.

The bridges are all in good repair, and all the heavy hills are graded. The company are spending large amounts of money on the road, and will spare no pains nor expense in maintaining it as the best road over the Cascade Mountains in the state. OUR

RED LETTER SALE

Commences To-Day.

We have made substantial reductions in the prices of our Clothing, and to convince the most skeptical that we HAVE DONE SO, we invite them to inspect our stock and see for themselves. In RED INK we have marked our selling prices, which will show a reduction ranging from $2 50 to $5 per suit in both Men's and Boys' Clothing. This reduction applies to our entire stock of Clothing. A heavy Fall Stock, to arrive in the course of a few weeks, and lack of room for it, is our reason for reducing prices—thus enabling purchasers to procure reliable merchandise below the market price.

UNITED STATES MARSHAL'S NOTICE OF Sale.—In Admiralty. The Scow "Daisy." United States of America, District of Oregon, ss. Whereas, an order was made on the 22d day of August, 1882, by the Hon. Matthew P. Deady, Judge of the District Court of the United States for the District of Oregon, in a cause therein pending, wherein John Fisher and Nelson Olsen are libellants against the new scow "Daisy," her tackle, apparel and furniture, commanding that the said scow "Daisy," her tackle, apparel and furniture, should be sold, pursuant to the interlocutory sentence and decree of said court, in this cause made and pronounced on August 22, 1882, after giving ten days' notice of the time and place of such sale, by publication in some daily newspaper published in Portland, Oregon, and otherwise according to law, and that the proceeds of such sale be paid to the clerk of said court. Now, therefore, I hereby give notice that, in pursuance of said order, to me directed and delivered, I will on Tuesday, the 5th day of September, 1882, at 2 o'clock in the afternoon of said day, in the foot of Columbia street in the city of Portland, at which place the said vessel now lies, sell the said new scow "Daisy," her tackle, apparel and furniture, at public auction, to the highest bidder for cash in hand. Dated at Portland, District of Oregon, the 22d day of August, 1882.
